Workshop highlights

Overview of public health student placements in Ontario

Highlights from a health unit key informant survey related to student placements in public health will be discussed.

Working with students today

This workshop will explore the generational differences currently at work in public health. It will focus on new millennial students, tips on providing useful feedback, and strategies to effectively work and learn together delving into how the staff-student learning partnership is evolving.

“New” student preceptor virtual resources library

A new virtual resource library will be launched which includes quick and easy tools to support public health staff working with students.

Student Placement, Education and Preceptorship (SPEP) Network

Learn more about the SPEP Network. Find out how to become a member and discuss public health preceptor-student placement needs for 2012.

Registration is free, however space is limited at most sites.
